

Helpful Volunteer Tool

Wildlife Rehabilitation Database (WRMD) is a web-based, online system which can remotely provide reasonably current information on the status and outcome of the animals admitted to PWC.

PWC Volunteers now have 'view only' access to this program, in order to check on the status of animals for callers.

To access, log into the web site at: <http://www.wrmd.org/> using: userid: pwcdispos@gmail.com

password: Raptor1 (it is case sensitive)

Remember, when providing information to callers, keep it simple, there is no need to go into detail about medications given or a step by step on the animal's recovery, a simple "Its still in treatment" or "I'm sorry, it didn't make it" or "It is being home rehabbed" is great.

In this case, less really is more.
